I enjoyed a wonderful day at the forest with my daughter and her class. We planted trees, studied bugs and made unusual potato animals out of bits and pieces in the forest. Our favourite activity was the hunt for plastic fauna with a GPS. The kids were so enthusiastic!! Well run and well done to a dedicated group.

Gina De Rosa

What a fantastic organisation the BCF is. As homeschoolers, we have found them supportive of our education methods and very welcome at all their activities. Keep up the great work.

A fantastic winner well deserved as it focusses on empowering tomorrow's adults by engaging young people to seek solutions to today's environmental challenges. A place where children's dreams and ideas are heard by a committed group of adults who make dreams a reality. A place where Kids do make a Difference.

The Baldvis childrens forest has inspired my family to plant in excess of 3000 native shrubs and trees on our 5 acre property which was a sandpit. The work the Teachers and children achieve at the forest is nothing short of fantastic. Well done. Duane

This is a great thing for the community and especially the local school children to become involved in, to give them an appreciation of the local environment... "Conservation through Education" Hopefully learning this at such a young age, they will continue with their good work and support throughout the years and then pass this passion on to future generations.

Kerry Sandhu

An excellent community project that has created a great link between the families of Baldivis new housing estates and their surrounding bushland. The project fosters children' s empathy and love for nature which will hopefully create a legacy of life long respect for the wider environment.

The BCF is a genuine success story, that adds another chapter to its book every year! There are many wonderful landcare initiatives happening around WA but not many that involve children, let alone so successfully on such a grand scale. Children really are the future of our planet and we are fortunate to have the vision of the BCF in our 'short-termism' approach to NRM. I've not only been privileged to be a part of what they do, but have been inspired by the BCF - which is what it's all about!

Year after year the Baldvis Children's Forest gives many children in Western Australian schools the opportunity to make a difference by planting seedlings that will enable the forest to continue to be a home for many native animals and birds, give pleasure to people who visit the forest and retain a place where there is no development. It is a place where children can explore, learn about bush fires, Aboriginal culture and the science of nature. The Baldvis Children's Forest is a winning place because it is a place that will be there in the future for our children's children.

Lindy Sharon Midalia

as a fire safety educator and being to the forest i believe that the amount of children that have passed through the forest is in the thousands and thus they should have a good chance of getting the award for the time the volunteers put in to teach the children in all of the forest plants and animals as well as planting and safety

This is the most significant environmental education program for children in WA. The programs that are running are sensational. Congratulations to Jo, Mary and Judith as well as all those community groups that make the BCF so special and unique. Let's turn unique into normal by getting schools doing their own environmental projects. Every school in Australia could find a spot in their local area.
